NAME_____G00_____ENTRY TERM_____

Native American Studies Minor

Michael Oberg, Coordinator (Sturges Hall 310) and Caroline Woidat, Coordinator (Welles Hall 228A)

The minor in Native American Studies will provide Geneseo students with a means for studying some of the pressing public policy issues affecting New York as a state with a sizable Native American population. New York is at the heart of some of the most critical debates in Native America: taxation of reservation land by state and local entities, gambling and its consequences, land rights and remedies, and, in general, the practice of Native American tribal sovereignty.

The minor allows students to approach these issues from an interdisciplinary approach, examining them within the larger frameworks of American history, literature, and anthropological studies.

Total Required Hours: 18

		# Hours Completed
HIST 262/S	American Indian Law and Public Policy	3 credits
Electives:	Chosen from among the following. Elective courses must be taken from at least 3 different disciplines.	15 credits
AMST 201/U	Topics in American Studies: American Indian Identities (or other NA subtitle)
ANTH 207	Prehistoric Cultures of North America
ANTH 209	Ethnography of the Iroquois
ANTH 211	Ethnography of North American Indians
ANTH 235	Ancient Civilizations of the Americas
ANTH 260	Religion of American Indians
ANTH 320	Archaeological Field School
ENGL 336	Native American Literature
HIST 261	Native American History
HIST 262	American Indian Law and Public Policy
HIST 362	Iroquois History: Prehistory to Present
Appropriate Internships and Directed Studies may be applied to elective credit requirements with approval of the Minor coordinator (AMST 395, ANTH 399, ENGL 399, HIST 399).
	Total Hours Completed:

Revised 06/2014

UNOFFICIAL