COLLEGE PROFILE

HISTORY OF GENESEO

SUNY College at Geneseo, one of thirteen university colleges within the State University of New York, was established by an act of the New York State Legislature in 1867 as the Wadsworth Normal and Training School. In August 1871 the Legislature changed the name to the Geneseo Normal and Training School and the school officially opened on September 13, 1871.

In the early 1900s, the curriculum was reorganized to require two years of professional study and admission was restricted to high school graduates. In 1922, the programs were extended to three years, and in 1938, to four years. In 1942, the College was granted authority to confer baccalaureate degrees in all its curricula. Basic teacher training programs were expanded to include preparations for teacher-librarians, teachers of children with special needs, and speech pathologists. Teacher education continues to be a strong component of the College's programs.

Geneseo became an original campus of the new State University of New York system at SUNY's inception in 1948. During the next three decades the College developed strong liberal arts and sciences programs and added several professional curricula to its offerings. The first master's degrees were awarded in 1951. In 1962, the teachers colleges of the State University became Colleges of Arts and Sciences. Geneseo's four-year degree programs in arts and sciences were implemented in 1964. In 1980, the School of Business was established. Cooperative programs have been developed in several fields with other institutions, including a 3-2 engineering and 3-2 and 4-1 MBA programs. New majors have been added in such areas as computer science and biochemistry. The commitment to providing a broad-based liberal arts education was confirmed in 1980 with the institution of a required Core curriculum covering coursework in natural sciences and mathematics, social sciences, humanities, and fine arts. The College continues to improve and upgrade its curriculum through regular review and assessment.

TECHNOLOGY

State-of-the-art technological resources are available for use by faculty, students, and staff in the College's twenty Smart Classrooms, each of which is outfitted with a VCR, ELMO visual presenter, triple-beam or LCD projector, and a computer. Navitar slide-to-video converters, Laserdisc players, and external VGA connectors for laptops are also available in most rooms. Each classroom is designed around an NEC switcher, allowing faculty to navigate equipment with relative ease.

Other classroom and advising technologies available:

- Physics' outdoor observatory with portable computers;
- Online class notes and supplements for courses;
- Communication's digital editing suite;
- WebCT, a web based course authoring system;
- Mathematics' use of the TI-95 calculators;
- E-mail mailing lists for classroom discussion;
- School of Performing Arts' use of digital video editing for theater projects;
- Online literature searches;
- Digitization and web availability of Foreign Language department instructional tapes.

CIT provides training to faculty, staff and students in high-demand areas, such as web page design and Banner (the College computer based information system) use. In addition, numerous guides are available online from the training page of the CIT web pages (<http://cit.geneseo.edu/UserServices/menu.html>).

Each residence hall has a Residential Computing Consultant (RCC), a trained student assigned to support technology in the hall. The Residential Network, currently used by 89% of on-campus students, generates high demand for RCC services.

Fifty student-access computing facilities located throughout campus provide students with Macintosh, Wintel, and UNIX workstations for academic and personal use. Printing and scanning capabilities are also available. "Lap Tap" and "Wireless Zones" are scattered across campus providing access to the campus network through an Ethernet connection or wireless computing technology. Departmental computing labs are configured for the specific academic area. They are located in the departments and include discipline-specific software programs, scanners, or other hardware.

Other computer resources available to faculty, staff, and students include:

- An individual network account for e-mail, web space, and access to file servers;
- The CIT HelpDesk, which provides telephone and walk-in technical support for the entire campus for a total of 94 hours a week, Sunday through Saturday.

Geneseo's web site offers technology quick guides on a variety of topics, access to academic documents, and computer based training.

KnightWeb

This provides faculty access to the college administrative database which includes information on students and courses. Students also use KnightWeb to register for classes and access transcript information.

Geneseo Wireless Notebook Program

This is a voluntary program that provides students with a high-performance IBM wireless ThinkPad computer, HelpDesk support and on-campus warranty repair/loaner service at a significantly discounted price. For the most up-to-date information on the Geneseo Wireless Notebook Program, check out: (<http://notebook.geneseo.edu>).

Program Benefits

The Geneseo Advantage - Each notebook computer will be configured specifically for operation on Geneseo's wired and wireless networks. Geneseo provides high speed "port per pillow" Internet access in each residence hall room. A wireless network is available in most of the academic buildings, some residence halls and surrounding outdoor areas on campus, allowing students with wireless notebook computers the benefits of the campus network without the wires.

On Campus Warranty Repair Service - Geneseo's wireless notebooks come with a two-year global carry-in warranty. Geneseo is an authorized IBM warranty repair depot and provides warranty repair service for notebooks on campus.

Loaner Service - Geneseo provides a notebook loaner service for problems that take more time to repair. A loaner is also available in the case of theft or accidental damage. The loaner service keeps one from being without a computer.

Insurance - Geneseo has partnered with IBM and Safe-Ware insurance to provide $0 deductible coverage for students IBM ThinkPads. This insurance covers theft, loss and accidental damage not covered under the standard warranty.

Price - Through its partnership with IBM, the Wireless Notebook Program provides significant savings to program participants.

Notebook computers purchased through this program will be shipped directly to SUNY Geneseo and can be picked up at the beginning of the school year. Pickup will include training on care and use. IBM and SUNY Geneseo technical staff will also be on hand for questions.
