|                    | Exercise  | Steps taken... | How many results? | How would you make the search better? |
| 1.                 | Find any scholarly article on the educational theorist John Dewey. Use any library database you think will work. Where would you go to find a list of relevant journal databases as you start the search?(Make sure to write the database you used and list your steps in the next column →)  |                |                   |                                       |
| 2.                 | Next, find a scholarly journal article about the theories of Lev Vygotsky. Use ERIC to find the article.(Make sure to list the steps you took to get to ERIC in the next column → )  |                |                   |                                       |
| 3.                 | Find a newspaper article on the topic of school vouchers. Use Lexis-Nexis Academic and look for New York state newspapers.(Make sure to list the steps it takes to get to Lexis-Nexis from the library homepage → )   |                |                   |                                       |
| 4.                 | Go to http://library.uncg.edu/news/ and find your hometown newspaper (or, the closest city/town). Search their website for an article on the topic of school budgets .List:-newspaper title-URL-title of the articleALL in the second column instead of "Steps taken" → |                |                   |                                       |
