Traveling and Pregnancy

Summary

Most pregnant women are able to travel safely without problems. The key is preparation, awareness of the risks associated with travel as well as those specific to pregnancy, and regular observation of safety guidelines. The health problems typically experienced by pregnant travelers are the same as those affecting pregnant women in general: fatigue, heartburn, indigestion, constipation, urinary discharge, leg cramps, increased frequency of urination, and hemorrhoids. Like the average traveler, pregnant women are strongly advised to follow the regular precautions with regards to safe food and water consumption, motor vehicle safety, and insect bite prevention - all general guidelines for safe and problem-free travel.

Deciding to Travel

A pregnant woman's decision to travel internationally should be based on consideration of a number of factors:

- Gestational stage: The American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology notes that the ideal time for traveling while pregnant is during the second trimester. During this time, most women are past the first trimester stage of morning sickness and are several weeks from the fatigue that accompanies the first trimester. Women in the third trimester are generally advised to stay close to home in case problems arise, including premature labor.

- Health status: Cephalic pregnancy should be ruled out prior to travel. Women with underlying illnesses are advised to avoid travel to the developing world.

- Destination: Pregnant travelers are advised to do their homework on their international destination. What are the major disease risks, and recommended vaccinations? Can local

Medical Intelligence Report: Cambodia
Local Health Care
Executive Summary

Quality of Care
Medical care in Cambodia does not meet international standards. Adequate care for basic conditions and emergencies is limited, even in the capital of Phnom Penh, and medical care elsewhere in the country is extremely limited or non-existent. Hygienic standards are low and hospitals lack adequate medications and supplies. UnitedHealthcare Global recommends evacuation in cases of serious medical conditions or emergencies requiring invasive procedures, blood transfusion or if hospitalization is required. Hospitalization is not recommended for travelers and foreign visitors.

The number of trained medical professionals in Cambodia is small.

Language Proficiency
The official language is Khmer, but Chinese, English and French are widely spoken.

Diseases and Health Risks
Travel to Cambodia carries significant health risks for foreign visitors, including malaria, Japanese encephalitis, rabies, food-borne diseases and dengue fever, though taking measures to prevent insect bites and observing precautions with food and water should help travelers avoid most health risks. All water sources outside major hotels should be considered potentially contaminated. Food served in large hotels and well-known restaurants should be safe, but travelers are advised to follow all precautions related to consuming food and water.

Immunizations and Preventative Treatments
For recommended and required vaccinations as well as preventative treatment for travel to Cambodia, visit the US Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) website.

Country Selection

After logging into World Watch®, users are automatically brought to the main screen. However, the bulk of the World Watch® content is found in the detailed and regularly updated pages dedicated to each country. To select a country, simply click on the Select a Country drop-down box on the menu bar and scroll through the country listings until you find the country you wish to select. Once the country has been selected, the screen will automatically refresh and the data will appear on the screen. You can select a different country -- or city using the Select a City box -- at any point in the system as the main menu bar is always displayed.

Country Menu Bar

Users maneuver through the country information utilizing the menu bar. The section of the system that you are currently in is highlighted with a blue background. The other areas appear with a black or grey background. Clients also have the option to customize the background of their WorldWatch® account, in which case the colors will vary. To shift between the various sections for each country, simply click on the section you wish to access. The system will automatically take you to that section.

The menu bar allows users to access the major sections of each country. Clicking on one of the major sections -- Country Overview, City Overview, Events & Calendar, or Travel Information -- opens up a second menu bar of subtopics related to each major section. See the World Watch® Topic Areas section below for detailed descriptions of the segments provided.

Print Reports allows users to print all of or certain segments of information found on the system. Simply select the content you wish to include in the report by checking the respective boxes under the Country Content and City Selector columns and then select the blue button entitled "View Report." The report will then automatically generate and users can choose to print or save the information.
Threat Levels

To the left of the menu bar each country’s threat level is displayed. If a city is currently selected this area will display the city’s threat level and crime level. Please see the following special report for additional information regarding how the threat levels are determined: Special Report – Revised Threat Level System. Please see the following report for additional information regarding how the crime levels are determined: Revised Crime Rate Definitions and City Threat Level Alterations.

Note: A nation’s Security Threat Level is not static; the threat level may be raised or lowered at any time due changes in the overall security in that country. Accordingly, it is best to check the Security Threat Level each time you access the system.

Recent Events and Facts

Directly below the menu bar is a box providing the most recent security and travel-related events for the country or city selected and a map of the selected location. On the right-hand side of the screen a column of facts provides statistics on the country or city, depending on which is selected. The statistics are updated as new information becomes available. In the case of some countries, especially in underdeveloped nations, certain statistical information is not available or is not relevant.
