

Amanda Slevar Technology Sales, SAP America

"Studying philosophy gave me the background to be able to think critically and to creatively look for logical solutions to challenging problems. In my current position, I am managing a team of sales professionals who are challenged with overcoming obstacles and providing technology solutions. A solid background in logic and philosophical techniques brings a great perspective and a different way of thinking to any project- something employers struggle to find!"

Class of 2002
PHIL Minor
Master's in Business
Canisius College