

Proposal to teach a Women's Studies and Gender Studies Course

Women's and Gender Studies offers WGST 100: Introduction to Women's and Gender Studies every semester, WGST 230 Intro to Queer Studies in fall of even years, WGST 310: Race, Class and Gender every fall, WGST 320: Gender and Sexualities every spring, and at least one "Topics" class as WGST 201-205 per year. Most of these are required for WGST majors, minors, and concentrators. Each course is 3 credits. Please refer to the bulletin descriptions and program learning outcomes in answering the following questions.

1. Which Women's and Gender Studies course would you like to teach?
2. What year or semester are you available to teach this course?
4. What support would you need from the Women's and Gender StudiesStudies program in order to teach this class? Examples include films, travel costs to a nearby event, training in feminist or student centered pedagogy, or buying out a course in your home department.
5. Please discuss your interest in and background for teaching this class.

Please attach a syllabus or detailed outline to this request. On your syllabus or outline, please include:

1. An intersectional approach to the subject matter.
2. Recent feminist scholarship.
3. Evidence of a student centered pedagogy throughout the design of the course.
